The Anglican Relief and Development Fund Canada (ARDFC) is a registered Canadian charity that undertakes carefully researched aid projects in partnership with Anglican dioceses in developing nations. These projects are selected after consultation with esteemed international Anglican leaders including Baroness Caroline Cox, Archbishop Mouneer Anis, Archbishop John Chew, Archbishop Justice Akrofi, Archbishop Daniel Deng Bul Yak Archbishop Henri Kahwa Isingoma and Archbishop Hector Zavala.

ARDFC works closely with the Anglican Relief and Development Fund (ARDF) in the US and is affiliated with the Anglican Network in Canada and the Anglican Church in North America.

Why ARDFC?

Stewardship – Projects are selected by Global South Primates after rigorous research and screening to ensure your gifts are used effectively and accountably, and have both immediate and sustained life-changing benefits.

Partnership – Projects are undertaken together with Anglican dioceses in developing countries. They provide the initiative, local knowledge, project management, implementation and accountability – while we provide the funds.

Christ-centred – Projects tangibly demonstrate Christ's love to those who are suffering. They not only hear the Good News of Jesus Christ but experience His transforming love through the help they receive from the local Anglican church.
