

From the rising of the sun to its setting my name will be great among the nations, and in every place incense will be offered to my name, and a pure offering. For my name will be great among the nations, says the Lord of hosts. (MALACHI 1:11)

EPIPHANY 5

We are now into February, and although in this part of Canada the weather can still be cold, the sun is rising earlier, and setting later: spring will come soon. We are all hopeful that with the return of spring will come a return of a life more like before. Let us thank the Lord for our blessings

PARAGUAY

The second floor the walls are complete and the roof is on in Asunción at the El Redentor school! One can see the left outside stairwell to the second floor, one of the two stairwells. With the roof now on, there is much less concern about the rains stopping construction. (In fact we ask that you pray for rains now, as it has been too dry so far, and very hot). The construction is going as planned, and it looks like all will be ready by the end of February, for a return to school for the children in March (the end of their summer break), God willing.

KAREN ANGLICAN MINISTRY AT THE BORDER (KAMB):

Last newsletter we told you about the ongoing support for this ministry. We will be receiving an update from our partners in Thailand at the border next month and will keep you updated next newsletter. Thanks to the Church of the Good Shepherd and St. Timothy's for their ongoing assistance.

CAMBODIA

We told you last time about the latest project: the establishment a new church in Phnom Penh Thmey. This is a dual project that entails setting up a church plant in Phnom Penh Thmey (Thmey means new), and the building of a dormitory to house up to 20 girls so they may continue their education, in Prey Smach, in the province of Pursat. This is a village north west of Phnom Penh. Most of the towns and villages in Cambodia lack a Christian presence as new church plants have been more focused in the cities. In addition, due to higher rents and cost of living in the big cities, many are choosing to move to the outskirts of the cities to areas such as Phnom Penh Thmey.

The needs for evangelism, church planting, and discipleship remain high, especially in suburban and rural Cambodia. A new Anglican church in Phnom Penh Thmey will meet the needs of newcomers and also provide a place for people to explore faith through the Anglican church.

Likewise, opportunities for a good education outside of the city are inadequate due to a lack of qualified teachers, low family income, and the lack of basic infrastructure, such as water, sanitation, and hygiene facilities, which particularly impact adolescent girls. In association with the Anglican Church of Cambodia, ARDFC is supporting the building of a dormitory to house up to 20 girls in Prey Smach, allowing them to continue their education, and support their families at home.
